

TRULIFE MINISTRIES FINANCIAL POLICIES

TruLife Ministries is a non-profit ministry and is not underwritten by any denomination or organization. Our staff do not receive salaries, but instead raise their own personal support much as missionaries do. We ask counselees to support the ministry of TruLife while they are receiving counseling by donating to our ministry, not for payment for the counseling service, but as a faithful giver in the support of the overall ministry effort of TruLife Ministries to our local community.

We ask that you review the Giving Plan and our recommendations as represented on page 2 of this form.

CONSULTATION

Your first visit with TruLife Ministries is considered a consultation offered at no charge where you can share the issues that caused you to seek help and your discipleship counselor can explain the discipleship process and answer any questions you may have.

SESSIONS

Sessions are generally ninety minutes in length.

WHAT ABOUT CONFIDENTIALITY?

The TruLife Ministries discipler adheres to a professional code of ethics. The confidentiality of your visit and of your discussion with us are protected by standards of ethical practice and law, but there are two important exceptions you should know about: 1) the law requires that we notify relevant others if a client expresses an intention to harm self or others, and 2) we are also obligated by law to report any instance of child abuse, neglect or molestation.

If you have any additional questions, please feel free to discuss them with your discipleship counselor at any time.
